What was the most valuable thing you learned in the workshop?

- Technology overuse is very prevalent and can be the result of many misdiagnoses in childhood behaviors due to neglect and avoidance.
- Research data, articles and links to share with colleagues and parent clients.
- Liked the TECHS–NO Rx pad idea. Reproducible handouts.

Was there anything not covered in the workshop that you felt should have been?

- How to address these issues with parents of Jr. High students.
- A more ‘balanced’ perspective on psychology/psychiatry intervention. I come from a more holistic practice and multidisciplinary team approach to behaviour. For example, the psychiatrists and pediatricians that I consult with typically look at sleep, diet and family functionary supports before prescribing meds.

How could this workshop have been better or more helpful?

- Great workshop.
- A bit repetitive (the statistics) from the morning workshop.

Would you recommend this workshop to others? If not, why not?

- Yes – very useful for K-6 school personnel.

- Yes.

Any other comments?

- Instructor was very approachable and very knowledgeable.
- Very insightful and well-presented! Thank you.
- Liked the “Suffer the Children” video best.

Analysis: Generally well received with exception of repetition from previous workshop.

Action: In process of making all workshops stand on own, and remove all repeating info.
